Biography

Short bio

Dan Green & the Mystery Machine is a poetic psychedelic rock band from Utrecht, NL. Known for their dynamic performances and immersive improvisation, the band draws inspiration from the likes of Pink Floyd, Ty Segall & Tame Impala.

Extended bio

Descending to a world where everything falls down, Dan Green finds a voice through the Mystery Machine. Presenting a tale of self destruction, the band leaves you buried below a deep layer of fuzzy guitars and washed out vocals; a sound combining psychedelia, garage rock and shoegaze. The band's live show surges with immersive improvisation, poetry and dynamic performances.

Dan Geen & the Mystery Machine is a five piece band from Utrecht, the Netherlands consisting of Daan Kleijnen (guitar/ vocals), Daniel van Boom (vocals/ guitar), Mees Blankevoort (keys/ vocals), Roan Grasmeijer (bass) and Sydney Harnisch (drums). With influences ranging from the classic rock of the 60's & 70's, to shoegaze & modern indie, their music transports the listener through a journey of lush harmonies and powerful lyrics. Their debut album 'Descendant' was released on June 28th 2024. It is a testament to their passion & energy, and captivates their audiences with its auditory artistry.

Press & reviews

Show review, supporting Kamchatka at DB's, Utrecht

'Before the Swedes take stage Dan Green & The Mystery Machine serves as opener and this newcomer act does an admirable job. Their spacy and psyched out rock tunes sound quite thought thru at first listen and the on-stage presentation does not lack any confidence for sure. These guys come on in full swagger and the five-piece had me fooled with their flawless English presentation. ...'
